what they want to do. They want to talk. They want to communicate. Y'all, can I tell you something about my ability to keep things interesting and keep people engaged? I don't want to be boring at these events. I don't want to stand up and talk about the work we do. I don't want to focus on technology. I don't want to focus on business. I want to focus on people. I want to focus on you. We'll talk about business later. Let's talk about the people. Let's talk about you. Let's talk about what you like, and how we can make you better. Let's talk about data and analytics and technology. We can talk about that. But I think we can probably save that for the cocktail hour, or maybe at lunch. Let's talk about you. The AllSpark sessions don't end at 5:00, either. There's time for Q&A and for networking, when you can pitch your organization to our audience. When you hire me, you make your pitch, and we spend an hour together. You pitch me what you need to do, so we can help you. You pitch to me, and we spend an hour together. You make your pitch, and you pitch to the audience. They share their ideas and insights. Then they spend an hour together. They pitched to me, and they pitched to each other. I tell my clients, think like a salesperson. You start with the person you need to close the sale. Get out of the office, and go sell. Who do you have to talk to? How can you figure out what they need so they'll hire you? How do you go talk to them? You're back at work. You're in the field. That's the AllSpark. Structure it however you want, but make it work. I tell my clients that for me, community is one of the most important things I do. I spend as much time outside the office as I do inside. I do my best work with the people I'm working with. I like meeting people, and having people come up to me, and tell me things. Give me stuff to think about. Atlantic Boulevard: Diner Finale, 1916.

Cancer among the elderly: a call for clinical research. In the United States, the aging of the population is a major problem. Recent statistics suggest that the percentage of persons aged 65 years and older is increasing from 15% in 1950 to 20% in 1990 and it is estimated that by 2020, over 21% of the population in the United States will be older than 65 years. Further, the elderly population is rapidly increasing in those countries (Japan, France, etc) where life expectancy is higher. The incidence of many cancers in the elderly is usually higher than in the younger age group and it is the elderly who have the worst survival rates. In this context, new treatment modalities are needed for this group of patients. Recent advances in our understanding of the biology of cancer make it possible to develop a much more rational therapeutic approach. In this article, the author lists some of the major biological features of cancer and the development of therapies. The options that are available and their drawbacks are then presented and therapeutic approaches are then examined in detail."The enemy is an abstraction, the solution is not, because the solution is in the execution, in performance," the president said during a meeting with Turkish President Recep Taysip Erdogan. In an exclusive interview for TIME with Erdogan, Trump praised Turkey's "very successful campaign" against the Islamic State, "It is a campaign that has been going on for some time and it will go on for a while," he said. "Turkey has helped the United States in the fight against ISIS. They have fought ISIS. They have killed ISIS," Trump said, using an acronym for the Islamic State. He added that Turkey has done "an extraordinary job" in fighting a "cancer" that has "spread throughout the world." Turkey has been a key partner in the U.S. effort to defeat ISIS in Syria since 2014. In a wide-ranging meeting, Trump and Erdogan discussed Syria, the status of troops in Turkey, the perceived mistreatment of U.S. soldiers by their Kurdish allies, as well as trade and security. The two leaders also shared views on the Islamic State, the Syrian Civil War, and Turkey's relations with the U.S. President Trump said that he wouldn't discuss any possibility of a U.S. troop withdrawal from Syria. He also said he was open to the idea of a safe zone in northern Syria, outside Kurdish
